FAMOUS MADAMS

POLLY ADLER, NEW YORK'S FAMOUS PRINCESS OF PLEASURE!

POLLY'S EX-HUSBAND, DUTCH SCHULTZ, BULLET IN CHEST.

I HAVE KNOWN!

by Steve Maste

Madam Polly Adler recently half-bared her breast in a partial confession of her career as a flesh-peddler deluxe, but she would compare to Dolly Floe much as Emily Post's book on etiquette would stack up against Capt. Billy's "Whiz Bang!" (This little volume was once popular as a joke book among the boys at the corner saloon.)

It is true that Polly hobnobbed with the low and the mighty, such as Dutch Schultz and Dixie Davis.

"GOLDEN GIRLS" LIKE DIANE HARRIS (ABOVE) AND PAT WARD (RITE) WERE STOCK IN TRADE OF FRISCO'S DOLLY FINE.

But I knew Polly in her palmy days, and I knew her for a gracious madam whose first concern was for her guests' comfort.

She ran a salon where amour was not the only commodity. You could drop in of an evening for a quiet chat and a drink, if that was your taste, and nobody thought twice about it. Polly was always a fine conversationalist, and if she took a fancy to you she'd bring out her private stock of real high-class bootleg and pour you one on the house.

But diminutive Polly Adler, the gal who always wore a smile for every right guy (and a few wrong ones), simply didn't have the color and the flair of a madam like the fabulous Dolly Fine, aforementioned.

Dolly Fine ran the red light business in the City by the Golden Gate, and she ran it with all the style and finesse of an 18th-century French countess. Her headquarters were on top of Nob Hill, the swankiest section of San Francisco. Every bedroom was equipped with a fireplace, and Filipino houseboys tiptoed silently about, stirring up the fire or bringing fresh scotch-and-sodas for the thirsty. All the girls were especially talented in other ways than the obvious. They could usually sing or play on the piano, and Dolly had a beautiful big Steinway grand in the music room.

Before she got run out of town by a corrupt city official who grabbed off her business, Dolly was catering to the manly public with the prettiest girls on the West Coast—at $50 a night! She wasn't greedy and gave her girls a fair share of the take. Many of them married influential citizens who first met them at Dolly's house on Nob Hill.

Although society has always looked askance at the "oldest profession" madams have usually commanded positions of respect in the community. They are among the handsomest givers at charity-time, and they usually have the ear of the city fathers.

No matter how much we deplore the ancient profession on moral grounds — and surely all right-thinking persons do! — it remains a fact that "There's a little good in the worst of us."

MRS. C. VANDERBILT LEAVES "MITSY" DIAMOND HORSESHOE.

THE VANDERBILTS: MIXED-UP MILLIONAIRES

The queer goings-on inside the massive, elaborate Nyack, N.Y. mansion probably wouldn't have attracted much attention had it not been for the fact that a real live Vanderbilt was involved in carrying out in each detail the erotic, lurid, dictates of a "mystical" love cult founded by a flesh-fancier known to his followers as "OOM THE OMNIPOTENT!" Mrs. Winfield Nichols, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, apparently attracted to the weird cult by its avid worship of love, became so deeply involved in the more secret and bizarre aspects of "Oom the Omnipotent's" passion-club that her former hubby, Cyril Hatch, tried to get custody of their young daughter in order to keep her from being snared by the cult! The episode assumed such notorious proportions that the Vanderbilt name was once more the subject of scandal!

For decades the Vanderbilt name has intermittently been kicked around by various members of the family who have a peculiar talent for soiling the family clothing and displaying it in public!

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. has played husband with five amorous ladies, but the fifth, blonde Patricia Wallace, was the only one with any imagination. When Corry refused to pay her the alimony she wanted, Pat went to the New York Welfare Center and filed the glorious Vanderbilt name among the unfortunates by applying for relief in the form of $7 for food money! Corry balked, but still bickered with lawyers over paying Pat the $1,500 a week she wanted.

ON 'MILLION DOLLAR RACING YACHT, MRS. HAROLD VANDERBILT.

Helen Varner, another of Corny's playmates, was as dangerously explosive as Patricia was desperate. Irked by her husband's indifference to her during the heated moments of a very low-brow marital argument, she whipped out a pistol and began chasing the steadfast Vanderbilt through the rooms of various Vanderbilt mansions that are scattered around the USA like so many motels!

Cornelius Jr., namesake of the illustrious Commodore who started the whole family on its dizzy way, wasn't the only member of the clan to stir up public indignation. Frederick Vanderbilt Field, great-grandson of the Commodore, made dirtier reading in the papers and almost brought about the utter collapse of the family prestige. Freddie's troubles weren't all with women, either, although they played an important part in his shenanigans. Freddie poured much of his share of the Vanderbilt fortune into Communist activities! And thereby stunned the nation by involving one of our oldest, wealthiest, most revered names by dunking it in Red slush! He held $100-a-head dinners for Communist-line causes and followed all party directives with the perfection of a cardholder. Freddie further blasphemed the grand old name by being sent to jail rather than cooperate with a US court investigating the Civil Rights Congress!

Edith Evelyn Hunter and Anita Cohen Boyer, two of the lush ladies Freddie exchanged marriage vows with, were both exceedingly interested in Communism. Edith actually worked for a pink-tinged group, and Anita's previous husband, Dr. Raymond Boyer, was a king-pin in the spy game Russia played during the Second World War! Like the love-cult anxious Mrs. Winfield Nichols, and the marriage addict Cornelius Jr., Fred never offered his country, family or anyone else an explanation for his behavior and traitorous defamation.

Unexplained, too, is the more recent example of Vanderhilt peculiarities exhibited by Gloria Vanderhilt Stokowski, wife of the conductor, who evidently wanted more gold to count in her Connecticut chateau. Gloria impulsively, and without bothering to explain herself, announced that she was cutting off her mother's $21,000 a-year allowance! Gloria always had an itch to juggle the family purse-strings and she entered her mother's inheritance with all the efficiency and coldness of a bouncer who wants to take the place over!

When they aren't at each others' throats or pocketbooks, the Vanderbilts dabble in such pastimes as yacht-racing over entire oceans, building up or tearing down one family mansion or another, and raising race-horses. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, playboy youngster of the bunch, added a neat package of greenbacks to his lion's share of the family fortune by raising a persistent nag called Native Dancer!

Things have been relatively quiet among these mysterious relations for almost a year now, but it's in the cards that something new will hit the headlines soon! With a super-fortune that can't even be counted, a family can't stay quiet!

RX FOR MADNESS!

INDIAN ROOT-DRUG CURES HOPELESS INSANITY!

Three top California psychiatrists have announced that better than 80% of seventy-four hopeless, or incurably mental ill patients were fully recovered after one treatment with a new wonder drug called ser-penell. Electro-shock treatment, which for years has been the method of treating such patients (often with disastrous results such as having bones snap in two under the convulsive reaction to shock) may soon be completely replaced by this drug.

In their report, the doctors said: "Patients have undergone a change from raging, combative, assaultive, unsociable persons to cooperative, friendly, cheerful, sociable, relativeiously meotally ill, has for a loog while struck psychiatrists and doctors as being as primitive as the old medieval practice of throwing insane persons into pits crawling with snakes, hoping that the terrifying experience would chase the "demonos and devils" out of the patients.

Doctors have had little control over the effects of electro-shock treatment because it is impossible to judge just how electric shock waves will affect the nervous systems of individuals. Ofteo the patient uodergoing electro-shock has such a violent reactioo, and the coovulsioos are so severe that booes actually break wheo the muscles contract suddoely. Patients sometimes lose their sight. Others, not so seriously affected by meotal illoess, are turned into raving maniacs as a result of electro-waves.

Serpasil is expected to change all this radically. The drug has beeo io ly quiet persons who are amenable to psychotherapy and rehabilitative measures." Dr. George S. Stevenson, medical director for the Natioocal Association for Mental Health, applauded the aooouncement as historic in the field of psychiatry. "If this drug can drastically cut the use of electro-convulsive therapy, there is promise for the solution of the most pressing problem in existing mental hospitals today!"

Electro-convulsive therapy, drastic shock treatment which ofteo does more harm than good to the ser-use for centuries in India for snakebite and mental weakness, but only recently was considered valuable to modern science. Actually it is a purified form of extractions taken from snakeroot, a small plant that grows in great abundance throughout India and parts of Africa.

The California psychiatrists said that of the 74 patients involved in one early test, eight had been discharged from the hospital, twenty others were so improved that they were sent home within a month, and the remaining patients have ALL definitely improved enormously! The patients chosen for the tests were considered to have the poorest chance of recovery! Serpasil and its amazing powers has been described as "incredible" by doctors the world over, because all of these "hopeless" patients responded so well to the drug.

The revolutionary status of the psychiatric world, brought about by the discovery of serpasil, will ultimately mean the conquering of one of mankind's gravest enemies: insanity!

HE-HAWS!

"CALL US AT 9:00 A.M. NEXT WEEK."

CAIRO, JULY 5. — A seductive night club belly dancer whose curves were good enough to entice seven men into wedlock with her at the same time was arrested today for bigamy . . .

Naima Abdel Wahab, 25, would have been a sex offender in any man's language, not just Egyptian, for polygamy is forbidden in all the civilized nations of the world— forbidden to women, that is, for it is permitted to men in Mohammedan countries.

But polygamy is not the only sex offense possible to the common man. Aside from rape (which may be statutory) and similar heinous offenses, there are innumerable sex laws that the perfectly ordinary man may break at any time without knowing it!

Take the case of J. B. He met a girl in a cocktail lounge, got on friendly terms with her, and took her for a ride in his convertible. They parked in a secluded lovers' lane. At a particularly embarrassing moment, a patrolman sneaked up and flashed his torch at them. This happened in a county where it is illegal to park with any woman who is not your spouse, to make love to any woman not your wife,

THE LAWS OF SEX!

WRESTLING WITH YOUR GIRL ON THE BEACH CAN GET YOU IN TROUBLE.

ABOVE: STREET PICKUP BREAKS LAW IN SOME STATES, BITE: UNMARRIED NECKING BREAKS LAW IN BLUE-LAW STATES, CAN LEAD TO JAIL.

and to make love in a public place. Right there you have three sex laws violated. But that wasn't all! J. B. was also guilty of "statutory" rape because the girl was under 21. Not ordinary rape, for he hadn't forced her. "Statutory" rape. J. B. got a 30-year sentence for that.

Such are the laws of love in the U.S. that half the population would be in jail if all our sex laws were enforced. Laws in America make illegal every kind of intercourse except that between man and wife, and marital partners must adhere to the so-called "normal" techniques of love-making or they, too, are open to criminal prosecution in many states. So says Dr. Alfred Kinsey, author of two famous tomes on the marital relationship.

Petting, a pastime with three fourths of the nation's youngsters, can be a dangerous game when played by a boy of 18 with his girl of 17, for in some localities the law interprets this as assault and battery or "impairing the morals of minors."

Adultery, which is more common than "polite" society likes to admit (though even the "polite" ones do it), can get you five years in Oklahoma. Seduction in North Dakota will get you five, and fornication in Kansas brings a $1,000 fine and three months in the cooler. Certain homosexual acts in Colorado will get a man life imprisonment. Dr. A. A. Brill, eminent psychiatrist and former associate of Sigmund Freud, states: "If a homosexual act in itself stamped a man as homosexual, then 37% of the male pop-

Below, kissing wife on living room couch is illegal in some localities. Site: wolf whistle is illegal almost everywhere.

It has been estimated that at least 95% of all men and 80% of all women have run afoul of the sex laws at one time or another — though most of them didn't know it! Records show that each year, for every 1,000,000 adult males, there are nearly 17,000,000 fornications, over 3,000,000 adulteries, nearly as many cases of prostitution, and close to 5,000,000 acts of homosexuality. What do these figures prove? — that Americans are especially immoral? or that we have so many outmoded sex laws that almost everyone is a sex offender at one time or another? This does not mean you, but it might mean your next door neighbor.

A Detroit chiroprapist was ruined professionally when his wife revealed his "unnatural" passion for feet! Now, in this case there was no statute on the law books to prevent the chiroprapist from enjoying his occupation, but the publicity in court and in the press when his wife sued for divorce turned public sentiment against him, ruining his practise. An Atlanta schoolteacher was divorced on the grounds that he had attempted certain "unnatural" acts with his wife. A California judge, however, threw out of court a wife's complaint that her estranged husband had "raped" her on the bathroom floor.

Did you ever kiss your wife on the living room couch? In one state it's illegal! Did you ever wrestle playfully with your girlfriend on the beach? Better watch that! Kissing in the park? Wolf whistle? Careful there! And don't make friendly remarks to the waitress, either. She might call the law on you. It's a tough world for the ardent male, but it's a very tricky world for the disinterested male also, for he can put his foot in the soup when he thinks he's just minding his own business.

It may take until 1957, but Army plans are being rushed through to change the official Army color from Olive Drab to a more pleasing, practical color. O.D., designers say, tends to have a "depressing" effect on the boys. The change is welcome, but troops hope the new GI color won't be an unmilitary shade of pink. . . . . A completely revised system for screening and inducting men for test-pilot duty is reportedly in the making. The cause of it all, it is rumored, is an undercurrent of discomfort among men now in the test-ranks who watched with horror as the Navy's experimental Sea-Dart exploded into bits over San Diego Bay. Too many experimental jobs have been blowing up and the boys are getting nervous! . . . Complaints among the boys stationed overseas have induced the creation of some top-notch, brand new camp shows. Seems the occupation boys found very little of interest to occupy themselves with in some of those last-generation babes! The new shows may be circulating next spring . . . Brass reportedly considering a period of frigid-zone training for every combat unit. WW III may well be fought on Arctic ice!

DARING PERSONALITY

I WANT A MAN!

BY LYNNE O'NEILL, THE ORIGINAL GARTER GIRL

LYNNE O'NEILL GIVES THE LOW DOWN ON A GARTER GIRL'S DREAMS!

I want a man, and I'm not afraid to say it! I don't care if he's short or tall, rich or wealthy, or even well-to-do, handsome or just nice-looking. As Gertrude Nelsen once said "I Want To Get Married!"

It may strike you funny that a girl who has worked such exciting spots as Greenwich Village's Nut Club, the Empire Burlesque and North Bergen's Boulevard Chalet should wind up still lonesome for male companionship, but a stripper's life isn't all tawels and lace!

If you were an amorous stage-door Johnny would you believe it when I told you that I was a frustrated ballet dancer who still lived with mother, and had to report in at home every night or risk a scolding? This happens to be the truth. But when I explain it to a would-be date, he thinks I'm kidding, and takes off like a frightened fuzzy wolf-cub.

If these men would only approach me with the same attitude they have towards a girl they meet at a neighbor's home or at the office, I'm sure we would have an entirely different kind of relationship! I love my work, and my life in the theater, but believe me, I'd rather be cooking up goulash in a cottage on Long Island, waiting to bring my man his pipe and slippers!

THIS IS THE UMPIRE'S VIEW OF "BLIND BASEBALL." BATTER STRIKES AT THE SOUND OF THE RING SLIDING ALONG A WIRE!

GUYS WITH GUTS!

While it is true that the person stricken with blindness can never forget the priceless treasure that has been lost, loss of sight does not mean the loser must sit mourning in the darkness for the rest of his, or her, life. Proof that the blind can continue activities that were normal for them when they had sight, is contained in a Pete Smith movie short "Play- ing by Ear."

The movie shows a blind athlete, BOB ANDERSON, has helped to bring sports back into the realm of the sightless. The means by which he accomplished this, are, to say the least, ingenious. Anderson organized "Blind Activities and Recreation, Inc." He devised rules and equipment which substitute hearing for sight in many types of sports, and his idea is paying off remarkable dividends.

Blind men play baseball, using a ring on a wire for the ball and running bases by guide wire. Basketball is also played by ear. The basket is tapped with a stick and the ball is aimed at the sound with remarkable accuracy.

who at 72 showed off her antiquated pins at the famous Paris Music Hall in the revue "Paris S'Amuse."

America's own aging glamor gal, actress Gloria Swanson, now 55, has been as attractive as she was a quarter of a century ago in recent stage and screen roles.

She made a sensational screen comeback in 1949 in "Sunset Boulevard," and more recently in the comedy "Three for Bedroom C."

MARLENE DIETRICH, HER MILLION-DOLLAR LEGS KEEP GOING STRONG.

In addition, Glamorous Gloria starred in the Broadway hit "20th Century."

Lately going strong in Las Vegas, was Mac West, the original "Come up and see me sometime" gal. She made her nightclub debut at the Hotel Sahara surrounded by a new cast of "the strongest men in the world."

Marlene Dietrich, of million-dollar legs fame, shows no sign of losing her appeal.
